

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA.

"I always imagined heaven would be a kind of library" —Jorge Luis Borges

Nov-Dec 2014

Friends meeting dates run October through May, at Main Library Auditorium 3745 Ninth Ave N

Friends Antiques Appraisal Fair Nov. 8 at Main Library

The Friends of the Library's second Antiques Appraisal Fair on Sat., Nov. 8 is a chance to get that family treasure – or treasured "find" – evaluated by local appraisers via minimum effort and reasonable prices.

This year's Fair will run from 10:30 a.m.-2 p.m. in the auditorium at the St. Petersburg Main Library at 3745 Ninth Ave. N. No reservations are required. All Friends programs are free to the public.

To last year's list of six generous volunteer appraisers and dealers, all of whom are returning this year to estimate values – add Gary DesMara of Asian Willow Gallery, who will lend knowledge of Asian items. They will sit by specialty.

As last year, don't bring antique firearms or large items, such as furniture; evaluations for these will not be available. Smaller antiques, collectibles and books are welcome. Costs: $5 for a single item; $12 for three items, additional items at $4 each. All funds raised support library programs and improvements.

Appraisers from 2013 Fair (plus 1) again will donate evaluations.

Dec. 6: St. Pete College Madrigalians' magical sounds of the season

The Friends look forward to welcoming back the Madrigalians, St. Petersburg College's select choral ensemble to "sing in" the holiday season on Sat., Dec. 6 in Main Library Auditorium. Note in your calendar: Start time this year will be at 1 p.m. Madrigalians are busy folks and we're fortunate they can fit in a stop at our library.

Invite a friend to enjoy a beautifully presented mix of ancient, seasonal hymns, plus traditional and popular holiday favorites.

This talented group is selected by audition, primarily among music majors with superior vocal skills and "sight-reading" ability. The Madrigalians' basic repertoire focuses on masterworks of vocal chamber music that range from the early Renaissance to the 21st century. The Madrigalians perform locally, around Florida, have toured overseas and even sang at Carnegie Hall. They are directed by Dr. Vernon Taranto, Jr., Director of Choral Activities at the St. Pete/Gibbs Campus. Barry Stevens accompanies on the Friends' donated parlor grand.

Come early to enjoy best parking and seating. We recently bought 25 more auditorium chairs, to accommodate larger crowds at such popular programs as the Madrigalians. You'll leave with a big dose of holiday spirit.

A gift for you!

Sat., Dec. 6

Dear Friends of the Main Library,

We had a good group present for our opening program on Sept. 20 in the Main Library auditorium. Our speaker Jeff Klinkenberg talked about the joys and trials of life in the state of Florida. It is a pleasure to listen to Jeff -- he is interesting and humorous. I have been to a few of his talks and book signings and I always learn something. He is a particularly welcome speaker because, while the audience is entertained by his stories, we realize the fragility of our unique environment, and our responsibility to future Floridians.

If you are in the Main Library, be sure to check out the Friends' display on one of the cubes in the area beyond the front desk. We have a poster displayed for the upcoming program, issues of the Book Page book review newspaper (until they are all taken), and a free bookmark with a list of programs through December. There are also applications for membership in the Friends group located on the display, so our group is growing all the time. We are grateful to the library for allowing us to use the cube so that we can have everything located in one place.

I have attended several planning meetings for the centennial celebration of the library system. There are lots of wonderful ideas and ways to include all of St. Petersburg throughout 2015 as we celebrate and strengthen the public library. As events are planned they will be on the library website. I've heard there will be birthday cake and punch at each branch at times throughout 2015, along with other events.

Our fundraiser for 2014 is approaching. On Sat., Nov. 8 we are having our second Antiques Appraisal Fair. All the appraisers who helped last year are returning, and Gary DesMarais of Asian Willow Gallery has agreed to add his knowledge for appraising Asian items.

The St. Petersburg College Madrigalians will be performing on Dec. 6, but take note: this year's concert will be at 1 p.m. There will be 25 more chairs for the audience because the Friends fulfilled the Main Library's request for more seating. Come and enjoy the concert.

Every child, parent urged to read aloud 15 minutes a day

With a simple, straightforward motto/mission, ReadAloud.org is garnering support and participation to better coordinate efforts to introduce reading to very young children all over the country – and make it a habit. They are leading a national campaign to make reading aloud just 15 minutes a day a widespread standard of child care.

Read Aloud 15 Minutes. Every child. Every parent. Every day.

The non-profit’s partners include the American Library Association, United Way, colleges, universities, reading interest groups and large, corporations.

The group quotes horrendously low statistics of how many hours many U.S. children are read aloud to during early childhood, with the well-known results of millions of kids starting school unprepared to learn to read.

To find out more, perhaps help, Read Aloud’s website is at readaloud.org. (This editor thinks they have a cool logo.)
