

The St. Petersburg Library System is pleased to offer its cardholders access to lynda.com's library of instructional videos. Normally, using lynda.com requires a paid subscription, but as a St. Petersburg library cardholder you can access lynda.com content from any computer with an Internet connection simply by entering your 14-digit library card barcode and your library account password.

Access St. Petersburg Library System's lynda.com login here.

- In order to sign in with your library card, you must use the link above. Library card access is not available directly through the lynda.com site.
- lynda.com apps are not available when using a library card; use the web browser on your device for mobile access.

Once you have logged into lynda.com with your library barcode you may create a personalized lynda.com account by entering your name and e-mail address. This account can help you manage your course history, playlists, bookmarks, and Certificates of Completion.

What is lynda.com?

lynda.com is an online learning site with library of over 4,000 courses. New courses are added every week. Courses cover a variety of topics including business, design, web development, multimedia skills and software such as Microsoft Office, Adobe Creative Suite and open source applications. These courses are delivered by expert instructors and feature searchable transcripts that make it easy to find quick answers to questions. They also feature Certificates of Completion that can be uploaded to a LinkedIn profile.

